

Editorial

Clinical Neuropathology 3-2025

13th European Congress of Neuropathology
Welcome from the Congress President
Bela Kubat

Dear friends and colleagues,

A very warm welcome on behalf of the Organizing and the Scientific Program Committees to the 13th European Congress of Neuropathology! The city of Maastricht was chosen as a location not only because it is a lovely historic city but also for its modern European history. The Dutch Neuropathology Society and the colleagues from the other Benelux countries consider it an honor to organize this congress together with the European Confederation of Neuropathological Societies (Euro-CNS). Being small societies, we were very grateful to find colleagues from other countries who participated in the scientific programming, making the congress genuinely European.

The speed with which science develops and innovates is exponentially increasing, opening new insights in disease pathophysiology, genetical and otherwise, and enabling the development and implementation of novel diagnostic and therapeutic procedures. The worldwide spread of diseases, such as COVID-19 infection, poses new challenges in medicine in general, and specifically also in the field of neuropathology.

The scientific program of the congress aims to address these challenges, combining clinical innovations with research. The program encompasses 8 main themes with international speakers and an introductory keynote lecture. In addition to the symposia, the themes are accompanied by workshops enabling active participation. Those who are interested or intrigued can even take a small detour into forensic neuropathology.

I would like to thank all colleagues from the Organizing and the Scientific Committees and from Euro-CNS for their support, as well as all the expert speakers who agreed to participate in the program. We are very grateful for the support from our various sponsors and exhibitors as well.

We welcome you warmly to the 13th European Congress of Neuropathology and hope that you will spend an enjoyable time at the congress, meet colleagues, starting collaborations and make new friends.

On behalf of the Organizing and Scientific Committees

*Bela Kubat,
Maastricht, the Netherlands
Congress President*